KEY ACTIONS GUIDE

SALES

NISSAN

INTRODUCTION

KEY ACTIONS GUIDE

Globally, Nissan has been carefully studying the behavior of Nissan owners from all over the world. Across oceans, languages, life stages, and backgrounds, the study recognizes not only the diversity of our customers, but also what they have in common. For your benefit, this guide will help you to spot the most valuable opportunities during a customer interaction that can turn a good experience into an experience that is worth recommending to others.

Your current selling style can be made memorable by adopting some, many or even all of the Key Actions. This is your playbook that you can refer to when you're in need of some inspiration.

The effectiveness of these Key Actions will depend on your commitment to using them. The more consistent you are with their use is what will help to take your customer experience performance to the next level, ultimately improve your close rate, and increase recommendation for you, your Dealership and the Nissan brand.

Why not try and adopt a Key Action today and see if this changes the way your customers engage with you?

KEY ACTIONS OVERVIEW

Customer feedback has been linked back to specific steps in the NSSW sales process, and summarized to demonstrate the customer's point of view

KEY ACTION

Encourage the customer to talk about their current vehicle to help them to clarify their needs in their own words

15 Key Actions have been developed to help you to be aware of, and prevent, common pain points from occurring within these steps

Best Practice

tips have also been developed to help you to enhance the overall purchase experience

BEST PRACTICE

Keep the customer informed of the delivery schedule as often as requested, and using their preferred contact method

GREETING

KEY ACTION

Acknowledge or greet all customers within 3 minutes of their arrival at the Dealership, or 1 minute in the showroom, and help them to find assistance

HOW

Once a customer enters the yard, make an effort to be visible, gain eye contact, and smile to show that you know they're there

If the customer indicates that they'd like assistance or when they enter the showroom

- ☐ Welcome them to the Dealership
- ☐ Introduce yourself by name
- ☐ Ask for their name
- ☐ Ask if you can be of any assistance
- ☐ Ask if they would like a tea/coffee

CUSTOMERS WILL FEEL:

-  Welcomed and cared for
-  Valued as a customer
-  More relaxed
-  More comfortable proceeding with the purpose of their visit

WHY

If customers are not acknowledged upon arrival, the customer may develop a negative first impression of the Dealership, and even leave.

An attentive welcome can quickly turn the Dealership into a pleasant environment, and is proof of professionalism and respect.

My notes:

2 KEY ACTION

Build rapport, and show enthusiasm when explaining how you can assist the customer with their visit

CONSULTING

HOW

Ask a few questions about:

- What they are hoping to achieve during their visit (eg. Collecting info, help in selecting a vehicle, test-drive etc)
- How much time they have today
- What research they've done so far
- If they've visited any other Dealerships
- The last time they bought a new car

Then,

- Provide them with a quick overview of your role and how you can assist them
- Ask how you can help today
- If and when appropriate during the course of the visit, take the opportunity to make a soft introduction to the Business Manager and/or Sales Manager

CUSTOMERS WILL FEEL:

- 😊 Appreciative that their own knowledge and preferences are being taken into account
- 😊 That their needs and opinions are important
- 😊 More willing to share detailed information
- 😊 Like you are working together
- 😊 More trust and value in including you in their decision making
- 😊 Recognised and welcomed to the Dealership

WHY

Customers can have different needs and expectations based on their knowledge, confidence and past experiences at Dealerships.

They will also most likely have dedicated a lot of energy on research before walking into the showroom.

Giving them the opportunity to share their findings can position you in a role where you can fill in the gaps and add value.

Soft introductions to key staff members can demonstrate a customer-focused culture within the Dealership, and also help the customer to familiarise themselves with the wider team.

3

Encourage the customer to talk about their current vehicle to help them to clarify their needs in their own words

HOW

- Ask the customer if they can show you their current vehicle

Ask open-ended questions about:

- How the customer uses their current vehicle
- Who else uses the vehicle
- What aspects of their current vehicle that they like/dislike
- Reasons why they're looking at getting a new vehicle
- How they use any accessories that are currently installed on the vehicle

CUSTOMERS WILL FEEL:

- 😊 More confident and capable of describing their needs by talking about something familiar to them
- 😊 That their needs are important
- 😊 That their input is driving the consultation process
- 😊 More clarity around their needs
- 😊 More likely to understand what aspects of their vehicle will be considered as part of the appraisal process

WHY

Encouraging customers to evaluate their current vehicle can be a good trigger to make their needs clearer. Without a thorough understanding of their own needs, customers may feel detached from the recommendations or feature demonstrations that are made to them later in the process.

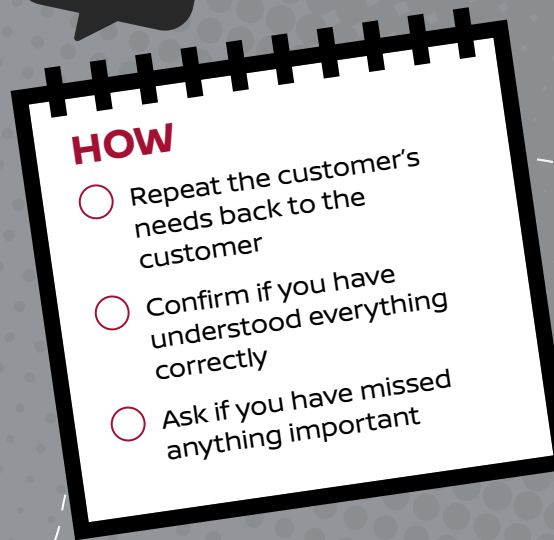

My notes:

CONSULTING

KEY ACTION

Listen attentively to the customer's needs, and demonstrate your understanding

HOW

- Repeat the customer's needs back to the customer
- Confirm if you have understood everything correctly
- Ask if you have missed anything important

CUSTOMERS WILL FEEL:

- 😊 That their needs are important
- 😊 Valued as a customer
- 😊 More trust and confidence in you
- 😊 Like they're making progress
- 😊 Comfortable proceeding to the next stage of the process

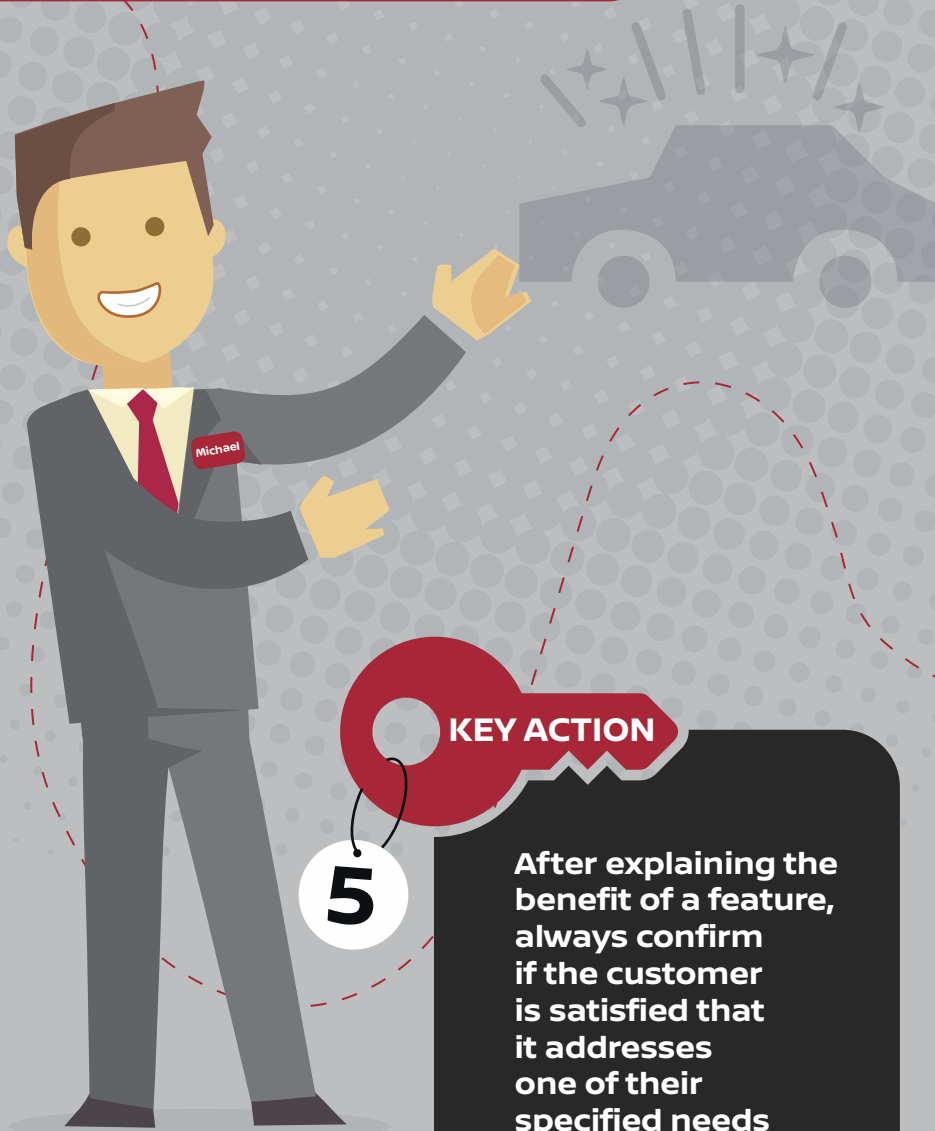

WHY

Reconfirming or restating the customer's needs can give both you and the customer confidence that you are both on the same page. This will help the customer to have more clarity and understanding of their needs and expectations, which will help you to set up a perfect vehicle recommendation, and customised product presentation.

My notes:

PRODUCT PRESENTATION

After explaining the benefit of a feature, always confirm if the customer is satisfied that it addresses one of their specified needs

HOW

Explain the feature, advantages and benefits. Then check that what you've presented is meaningful to the customer by asking:

- ☐ Would this be useful for you?
- ☐ Is this what you were looking for?
- ☐ Does that suit your needs?
- ☐ Is this important to you?
- ☐ Does this address what you mentioned earlier?

CUSTOMERS WILL FEEL:

- ☒ That you've listened carefully to their needs
- ☒ That you have their best interests in mind
- ☒ That the vehicle you've recommended is a good match for their needs

WHY

Customers will have various needs and expectations when it comes to product presentation.

With increasingly complex technology in our vehicles, it is important to understand that some customers may not understand or be engaged with all available features.

Your customers will feel like your presentation is tailored to them if you are regularly asking for their opinion.

My notes:

DEMONSTRATION DRIVE

BEST PRACTICE

Always ask the customer if they would like to take a test drive

HOW

(If they've visited other Nissan Dealerships before)

- Ask if they have test-driven the vehicle already
- If so, ask for their feedback on their experience. If appropriate, ask if they would like another test-drive

(If first time at Nissan Dealership)

- Mention that the best way for them to decide if the car is right for them is to experience it for themselves
- Ask if they have time, and if they would like to take a test-drive today
- If they don't have time for a test-drive today, but are still interested, provide alternative options (vehicle dropped-off at customer's home/place of work, or arrange an appointment at another time)

CUSTOMERS WILL FEEL:

- 😊 Appreciative of the offer to experience the vehicle
- 😊 Like you are genuinely interested in helping them to find the right vehicle
- 😊 More comfortable about the prospect of taking a test-drive
- 😊 More likely to confirm their vehicle choice

WHY

The amount of information and advice that is available online to car-buyers makes the test-drive one of the only unique experiences that can be offered by a Dealership. Inviting the customer to experience the vehicle adds value to their visit, and to their overall decision making process. For some customers, it is the only reason for their visit to the Dealership. Be sure to be on the front foot and offer a test-drive to all customers, as not all customers feel comfortable asking for one.

My notes:

BEST PRACTICE

PRACTICE

If the customer is trading in, ask the customer if you can have the trade-in evaluation done during the test-drive to save time

TRADE-IN EVALUATION

HOW

- Ask the customer if they would like a complimentary vehicle appraisal to be done while you are on the test-drive
- Prompt relevant staff members to appraise the vehicle before getting the test-drive vehicle ready
- Provide an estimated time that you will return back to the Dealership so that the vehicle appraiser can organise to be available to meet with the customer

- ## HOW
- Ask the customer if they would like a complimentary vehicle appraisal to be done while you are on the test-drive
 - Prompt relevant staff members to appraise the vehicle before getting the test-drive vehicle ready
 - Provide an estimated time that you will return back to the Dealership so that the vehicle appraiser can organise to be available to meet with the customer

😊 Appreciative of the convenience of being able to progress without delay

If the test-drive experience goes well for the customer, the momentum can continue without delay upon returning to the Dealership.

My notes:

[illegible]

KEY ACTION

Prior to the test drive, confirm what the customer would like to experience, and then explain how this can be done over the course of the test-drive

HOW

- Give the customer freedom to decide what's most interesting or important to them
- Also make suggestions about what you think would be useful to demonstrate during the test drive
- Let the customer know that you will provide some commentary during the drive to help them understand the features while they're in action

CUSTOMERS WILL FEEL:

- 😊 Excited to experience the vehicle
- 😊 More comfortable about the prospect of taking a test drive
- 😊 More attentive to relevant features and characteristics of the vehicle
- 😊 More confident in assessing whether or not the vehicle meets their needs

WHY

Some customers will rely on you for recommendations on what features to make use of during the test drive, while others will have specific requests. Spending a moment planning together will help the customer to highlight what's important to them, and make the test-drive a relevant and value adding experience. Pre-planning will also help customers to prepare to focus on these aspects of the vehicle during the drive, which will increase their understanding and enjoyment of the product.

My notes:

DEMONSTRATION DRIVE

KEY ACTION

Allow the customer to fully experience the selected features that are important to them during the test drive

HOW

- Ensure the test-drive route is suitable for demonstrating the features identified
- Explain the advantages and benefits of the chosen features before the customer makes use of them
- Review these experiences at the end of the test drive
- Ask the customer for feedback on their test drive experience

CUSTOMERS WILL FEEL:

- 😊 That the test-drive is adding value to their decision making process
- 😊 More confident in their understanding of the vehicle
- 😊 More trust in your advice and recommendations

WHY

Be mindful that the customer is driving an unfamiliar vehicle in potentially an unfamiliar area, so they will appreciate your guidance. Prompting their focus on the feature (eg. blind spot warning) before it is engaged will help them to prepare for and experience the feature with minimal distraction.

Summarising the demonstration at the end of the test-drive will help them to recall their experience, and will prompt them to ask questions to double check their understanding.

My notes:

Your car has a lot of character

DISCLOSING TRADE-IN EVALUATION

BEST PRACTICE

Be respectful of the customer's bond with their existing vehicle when disclosing the outcomes of the trade-in evaluation

HOW

- Be sensitive to the customer's perceived value of the vehicle
- Demonstrate that you are striving to get the best possible result for the customer
- Reflect on the things that both you and the customer observed about the condition of the vehicle during the consulting stage
- Ensure that you list all of the factors that are considered when determining the value (e.g. re-conditioning, KMS, private market, cost of sitting in stock, rego, G.S.T.)
- Remind the customer that they reserve the right to sell their vehicle privately

CUSTOMERS WILL FEEL:

- 😊 More likely to accept the valuation as fair and reasonable
- 😊 More likely to consider the convenience of trade-in vs the effort required to sell privately

WHY

Customers may have a valuation in mind that does not match with the Dealerships evaluation - understandably, a lower valuation can be a shock for the customer and, in some circumstances, a break-point. Ensure your delivery of the valuation leaves the customer feeling that you have their best interests in mind, and that you have disclosed all available information.

My notes:

NEGOTIATION AND CLOSING

BEST PRACTICE

Confirm your understanding of the customer's vehicle preference, and needs (accessories, timing constraints, trade-in) before proceeding to check availability of the vehicle

HOW

- Double-check the accuracy of details such as colour, grade, timing requirements
- Give the customer the opportunity to ask questions, gain clarity or make corrections before proceeding with next steps
- Be transparent about product availability

CUSTOMERS WILL FEEL:

- 😊 Trust in you as their advocate for achieving a win/win
- 😊 Confidence in your attention to detail and understanding of their needs

WHY

Nothing burns trust faster than failing to fulfill promises after signing a contract. In most cases, broken promises are simply the result of miscommunication. Given the nature of the purchase, customers will appreciate having time to double and triple check all details prior to signing, and it also highlights your commitment to meeting their needs.

My notes:

BEST PRACTICE

At the close of a sale, congratulate the customer and prepare them for delivery day

NEGOTIATION AND CLOSING

HOW

- Congratulate the customer, and mirror their positivity and excitement
- Acknowledge that this is a big decision for them, and that you'll help them through the next steps
- Take them through the 10 Steps of Delivery
- Confirm preferred frequency and method of keeping the customer informed of delivery (phone call/text/email, weekly/fortnightly etc)

CUSTOMERS WILL FEEL:

- 😊 Excited!
- 😊 Trust and confidence that you have assisted them to achieve a positive outcome
- 😊 Like they can now start to enjoy the experience
- 😊 More informed about the next steps

WHY

By showing excitement and positivity, the customer will be encouraged to truly enjoy the moment and be focused on the excitement of the next steps.

Having the next steps explained will clarify expectations about and how when they'll be contacted, and provide reassurance that they'll continue to be supported through the next phase of the process.

My notes:

BUSINESS MANAGER

BEST PRACTICE

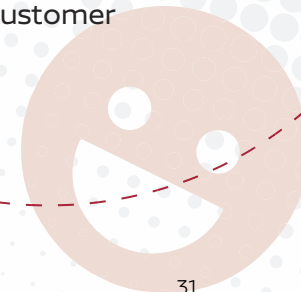

Pre-brief the customer about the next stage in the process so that they understand the role of the Business Manager, and what to expect

HOW

- Prepare the customer for the next steps
- Clearly outline the role of the Business Manager
- Provide an agenda of topics that may be discussed
- Advise the customer that you will be in close proximity and can be called upon to help assist with any questions

CUSTOMERS WILL FEEL:

- 😊 More comfortable and prepared for the next steps
- 😊 Like you are supporting them through the process
- 😊 Valued as a customer

WHY

Be mindful that up until this point, the customer may have spent the entire time in the Dealership building a relationship with only you.

For most customers, the peak of purchase anxiety is experienced at the closing stage, so continue to show your support by preparing them for the next steps.

My notes:

WHY

If customers are left unattended for extended periods of time while waiting for the Business Manager, and their Salesperson has started attending to other customers, there is a high risk that the customer will feel abandoned, or under valued - this can detract from their customer experience, or even create a risk of losing momentum in the sale.

My notes:

BEST PRACTICE

Be attentive to the customer during the transition to the Business Manager

BUSY

NISSAN

HOW

If the Business Manager is unavailable immediately:

- ☐ Give the customer an estimated waiting time
- ☐ Offer food, refreshments, reading material while they wait
- ☐ Keep customers informed of their progress in the queue
- ☐ If the wait is substantial, ask the customer if they would prefer to reschedule

CUSTOMERS WILL FEEL:

-  Less restless
-  Understanding that the Business Manager is busy
-  Reassured that the process is unfolding as planned
-  Valued as a customer

BEST PRACTICE

Conduct a smooth transition to the Business Manager, and ensure the customer feels comfortable

BUSINESS MANAGER

HOW

- Bring the Business Manager to the customer
- Conduct a verbal handover to the Business manager with the customer present, and double check that your understanding of their needs is correct
- Accompany both the Business Manager and customer back to the Business Manager's office
- Maintain excitement and positivity for the customer's purchase
- Only leave once the customer is comfortable

CUSTOMERS WILL FEEL:

- 😊 Like you are genuinely interested in achieving a great outcome for them
- 😊 Like you have listened intently to them for the duration of the visit
- 😊 Supported through the process

WHY

The quality of the handover to the Business Manager is a demonstration of how much you've listened to the customer, and how much you care about the level of service provided to them.

My notes:

WHY

Customers can feel let down and abandoned if they do not hear from their Salesperson while waiting for delivery, and find the contact. It is important to understand the customer's expectations around being kept informed so that you know what will put their mind at ease, and how to maintain their trust in you.

My notes:

DELIVERY

BEST PRACTICE

Keep the customer informed of the delivery schedule as often as requested, and using their preferred contact method

JUST CALLING TO TOUCH BASE WITH YOU, AS PROMISED

HOW

- Refer to the customer's preferences for how often they'd like updates
- Be diligent and keep promised deadlines for contact (date and time of day), even if your information has not changed
- Contact the customer via their preferred method (phone/SMS/e-mail)

CUSTOMERS WILL FEEL:

- 😊 Trust and confidence in you
- 😊 Appreciative of your commitment to maintaining updates
- 😊 Peace of mind knowing that they haven't been forgotten

✓ FAULT FREE
✓ ACCESSORIES
✓ DETAILED

KEY ACTION

8

Ensure that all associated paperwork is complete, the vehicle is free of faults, and all accessories, inclusions and delivery materials are ready prior to the customer's arrival

HOW

- Complete Pre-Delivery-Inspection (PDI) and Pre-Delivery-Checklist 48 hours before vehicle delivery
- Rectify any unexpected product or accessory issues before vehicle delivery
- Fill fuel tank and complete detail at least 2 hours prior to customer arrival
- Ensure relevant checklists and paperwork have been completed accurately
- Finance paperwork is ready
- Red carpet and Welcome stand are set-up next to the vehicle

CUSTOMERS WILL FEEL:

- 😊 Like they are dealing with an experienced and professional team
- 😊 Valued as a customer
- 😊 Excited

WHY

Customers expect the Dealership to be ready for their arrival on delivery day, and their vehicle to be in perfect condition. A lack of preparation can detract from the excitement, and can make the customer feel like they are not a priority.

Thorough pre-delivery checks will minimise any possible issues or delays without inconveniencing the customer, and a special delivery presentation will highlight your understanding that this day is a special event for them.

My notes:

KEY ACTION

Invite the customer to complete the delivery checklist with you at their pace

DELIVERY

HOW

- Show proof that the PDI checklist has been completed by the Service Department
- Invite the customer to complete the delivery checklist with you
- Demonstrate/point out the checklist items on the vehicle and check for customer approval
- Before signing the checklist, double check that the customer is completely satisfied with the condition of the vehicle

CUSTOMERS WILL FEEL:

- Trust in the Dealership's commitment to delivering the vehicle in perfect condition
- Like they are dealing with an experienced and professional team
- Peace of mind
- Valued as a customer

WHY

This is a significant purchase and the customer needs to feel confident and relaxed to enjoy the experience. Offering sufficient time for customers to be involved in checking the vehicle will reassure them that their vehicle is in perfect condition.

My notes:

DELIVERY

10

Deliver a tailored vehicle feature explanation that includes a combination of customer preferences, and recommended items noted from the consultation process

HOW

- Mention that you want to make sure the customer is confident about using the car before they leave the Dealership
- Explain that you will answer any questions that they have first, and then demonstrate some special features that require an explanation from you
- Invite the customer to walk around the vehicle and sit in the driver's seat to help prompt them of any questions
- Demonstrate technologies or features that are not intuitive for the customer, and any features that you identified during the consulting stage that were important to the customer

CUSTOMERS WILL FEEL:

- 😊 That you have a genuine interest in ensuring they enjoy their brand new vehicle
- 😊 More comfortable asking questions
- 😊 That you are attentive and interested in their needs
- 😊 Confirmation that they've made the right choice

WHY

A generic explanation of vehicle features may not be of value to the customer, and may project a lack of care. On the other hand, if left completely up to the customer to ask questions, they may not know what to ask.

A combination of what customers want to know and need to know will offer them the most value.

My notes:

11

DELIVERY

KEY ACTION

At delivery, provide the customer with available brochures relating to servicing, extended warranty, and roadside assistance, and provide a quick orientation of the owners manual

You'll find a lot of useful information in here, but please feel free to call me if you have any questions

HOW

- Provide the customer with the Vehicle Delivery Folder (VDF) and refer to the information brochures relating to Nissan servicing, extended warranty and roadside assistance
- Show the contents of the owner's manual, and advice on how to find key information
- Invite the customer to make contact with the Dealership if they have any questions after delivery day

CUSTOMERS WILL FEEL:

- 😊 Comfortable reaching out for future assistance if required
- 😊 More informed and supported in their transition into ownership
- 😊 Less anxious about forgetting key information on delivery day

WHY

Delivery day is exciting, and there is a lot for customers to take in. Providing a quick overview of resources that they can take home and read in their own time will provide the customer with peace of mind.

If they have key contacts that can support them after delivery, they are also more likely to relax and enjoy the experience of the day.

My notes:

DELIVERY

SEE YOU
AT 1000 KM
FREE
SERVICE

12

Introduce the customer to the Service Department, and provide an overview of the benefits available when servicing with your Dealership

HOW

- Accompany the customer to the Service Department and manage introductions to key staff
- Invite the service representative to provide an overview of key information relating to servicing (how to book an appointment, early bird drop-off, location of customer parking, courtesy car/shuttle bus services, Express Service, customer lounge Wi-Fi etc)
- Book the customer's 1,000km free inspection service
- Obtain contact information of key staff in the Service Department on behalf of the customer

CUSTOMERS WILL FEEL:

- 😊 Supported in their transition to ownership
- 😊 More familiar with the benefits and services available to service customers
- 😊 Like they have established a genuine relationship with the Dealership
- 😊 More informed about how they can protect their investment with expert maintenance

WHY

Organising an introduction to the Service Department is an important demonstration of your genuine interest in the well-being of the customer, even after the sale is complete. Customers will feel highly valued, and have reassurance that there are many contacts available to support them from delivery day and beyond in looking after their new car.

My notes:

FOLLOW UP

13

Follow up after delivery to make sure the customer is completely satisfied

ARE YOU ENJOYING YOUR NEW CAR?

HOW

- Refer to your Dealership's documented process for handling follow-up calls
- Make a quick follow up call within 2 hours of delivery to check that the customer is safe and enjoying their new vehicle
- Make another follow up call within 48 hours to check that they are completely satisfied, or to rectify any concerns
- Ensure you follow a standard process to manage the call if they are not satisfied

CUSTOMERS WILL FEEL:

- 😊 A connection with the Dealership and staff
- 😊 Valued as a customer
- 😊 Supported in their transition into ownership
- 😊 Confidence in the Dealer's willingness and ability to provide support

WHY

A lack of follow-up contact can distort an otherwise positive perception that the customer had of their purchase experience. This can impact the desire to return to the dealer for servicing, and the desire to make referrals. Customers highly value follow-up contact, as it is a demonstration of your genuine care.

My notes:

THANK YOU
FEEDBACK
I WILL GET
THAT

14

If there is a concern,
address all issues
or customer
complaints quickly

HOW

- Thank the customer for their feedback
- Repeat back to the customer what your understanding of the issue is
- Take ownership of the customer's concerns
- Give them an indication of next steps, and when you will make follow up contact
- Aim to resolve the issue quickly, and close the issue only when the customer is satisfied with the outcome

CUSTOMERS WILL FEEL:

- 😊 Like their concerns are being understood and treated with respect
- 😊 Higher levels of confidence and trust in the Dealership and brand
- 😊 Valued as a customer

WHY

A new car purchase is a significant decision for most customers, so it can be easy for customers to feel distressed if something doesn't go to plan. Customers don't expect you to have all of the answers, but appreciate if their concerns are acknowledged, and addressed quickly.

Frustration can build if customers have to explain a problem repeatedly to different staff, or if their concerns are dismissed without their approval.

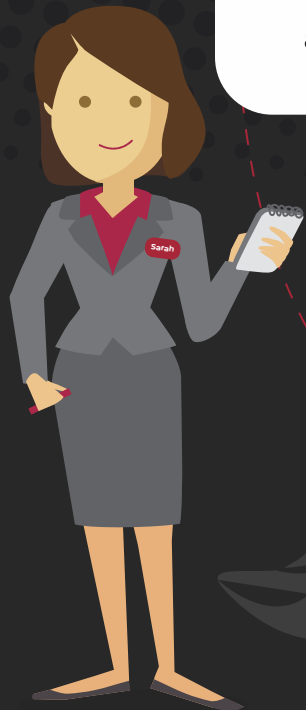

My notes:

5S

15

Use the 5S methodology to keep the entire Dealership clean, tidy and efficient to maximise comfort, safety and convenience for customers and staff

HOW

- SORT – Remove unnecessary items from the Dealership
- SET IN ORDER – Arrange the work areas to streamline workflow
- SHINE – Clean the work areas, find and eliminate sources of contamination
- STANDARDISE – Create a standardised and consistent 5S routine. Assign tasks and create schedules so that everyone knows their responsibilities
- SUSTAIN – Ensure that 5S is a long-term, Dealership wide goal. Have regular team meetings and train new starters on the importance of 5S so that routine becomes a habit

CUSTOMERS WILL FEEL:

- 😊 That they are dealing with a highly professional and experienced team
- 😊 Reassured in their choice to purchase from your Dealership
- 😊 Trust and confidence in the abilities of the staff who are customer facing, and those behind the scenes
- 😊 Confidence in the quality of the Dealership
- 😊 Confidence in the quality of the brand

WHY

The Dealership appearance can influence a customer's entire impression of the Dealership and purchase experience. The 5S principles of Sort, Set in Order, Shine, Standardize, and Sustain ensure that the Dealership is set up to enable all staff are able to perform their roles efficiently and effectively. From a customer's perspective, the principles of 5S ensure the customer's experience at the Dealership is as comfortable and convenient as possible.
